

Note: Even though the Turbo Heat Unit produces all the heat required for heating and domestic hot water, a hot water heater is still necessary in the system. It is required to accurately regulate domestic hot water temperatures. It is used only as a pressurized holding tank and does not need to be hooked up to gas or electricity since it extracts all its heat from the Turbo Heat Unit. The hot water heater can be placed anywhere in the home.

Domestic Hot Water Tie-In (Not showing Thermostatic Controller)

© Copyright 2003 All Rights Reserved Turbo Heating Co.
Dwg#3715-0003-0304-B Pg#51